Crisis Communication

Pandemic Impact Assessment: Management View

- Management’s view is TECHNICAL / ANALYTIC
  - Magnitude (research > How bad is it?)
  - Probability (statistics > How likely is it?)
  - Known facts and understood consequences
  - Liability must be minimized

Impact Assessment: How About Emotions?
Pandemic Impact Assessment: Public / Employee View

- Public’s view is AFFECTIVE / EMOTIONAL
  - Shaped by stakeholder perception
  - Influenced by stakeholder outrage
  - Based upon personal experience and impact
  - “Not fair” & “They don’t have any feelings”

Crisis Communication

What Not To Do

“Okay, people, the question is should we deny first and then delay, or delay first and then deny?”
Crisis Communication

Key Asset: Employees

- Without informed, dedicated and trusting employees the pandemic response will fail
- How can the organization help employees and their loved ones in this time of crisis?
- Leaders must listen, explain hard decisions with context, be visible (in person, video)
- Understand that all employees - across industries – are currently experiencing stress

How Crises Affect Employees

- Uncertainty
- Pressure
- Anxiety
- Stress

There are many stressors including health concerns, job concerns, etc.

Crisis Communication

Employee Covid-19 Needs

- Stability-Hope-Compassion-Trust (Gallup)
- Messages must inform, educate & motivate
- Want to know & buy into “Clear Way Forward”
- Feel empowered to show resilience
- Practical Support incl. Unpaid Leave, Health Insurance, Flex Time, Remote Work, PPE
- See company mission, vision, values in action

Important Questions

Ask before communicating with employees:

Words of Wisdom

It is far better to Prepare and Prevent than to

Repair and Repent
